The Run

The haze had lifted a little for Soh Bee's run, but it was still unhealthily bad. At the run site I just caught a glimpse of the 4.30 gang going in as I drove gingerly down the broken tarmac. On Cash Russell had already set up camp and thankfully staked his claim for the beer truck and circle.

I asked why Ah Bee was now known as Soh Bee and learned that Soh was the Chinese equivalent of Gila as in Gila Kong – 'Crazy'. And several members mentioned that he'd gone feral when it came to setting runs. It didn't bode well for tonight.

A goodly crowd was gathering at the run site and the usual bad traffic hadn't stopped most, except Billabong, from arriving on time. At the call of On On the On Sec made a good pace on the usual trail under the highway. The first check was short and lay just the other side of the tunnel, which given the haze, the On Sec was very pleased about. The pack gathered as Mountain Goat, Kenny and others went checking. Bull was already quite far on the old trail to the right and waved 'no paper' so it had to be either forward or up the hill. And up the hill it was.

At the top, the pack separated into walkers and runners with a sizeable portion of the former bunching together. Perhaps they knew something. From here the run went into a huge figure of eight; a risky attempt that clearly justifies the 'Soh' as in Soh Bee. The third check caused huge problems for the 4.30 gang who, according to Robb, took ages to break.

At about 7.15 the walkers started to make it back to the run site, with no sign of the Hares. Mutterings of 'Sure ..... up run' made their way around as people showered. Then, at 7.25pm a small pack of very tired looking

Hares made their way through to the beer wagon. Soh Bee explained his wild figure eight theory and explained that they had to wait at one junction for the runners to go through before they could lay paper on the next part of the trail. When asked how long he replied about 11km and then added 'plus', and after a further few seconds' pause added 'plus plus', followed by "Okay lah, fine run never mind"

However, at exactly 7.40pm Monkey came loping along the road as if on a gentle stroll and even took the long way into where the cars were parked. He stated 'good run' and then fell into a deep conversation with the gathering Hares. It took a fairly long 4 minutes before the usual crowd of Ah Kah, SuperOldMan, Ah Meng etc came into view with the 4.30 gang also coming in in dribs and drabs. Robb had 15km + on his GPS.

As the runners came in so did the 'Good run' comments although for some of the back runners it was 'A bit too long lah'. Nevertheless the checks were very good as they kept the pack together. This resulted in the majority of the pack being in by 8.10, and the last runner, Billabong, who went in late, out by 8.30pm. So (h), a crazy run by a not so crazy member after all.

The Circle

The circle started much later this week and the Guinness bar opened at about 8.30pm with the usual line forming. The beer disappeared so quickly that Ramlee had a sweat on and needed a breather. On Sec will have to have a look at this and perhaps consider an extra case of the black stuff in future. The Butler for the evening was to be Jang Jae Song, but as he didn't turn up, the club needed a volunteer and the excellent Golo stepped forward.

The Hares were called up and looked very pleased with themselves as it would not be an automatic fine run, and the pack unanimously said 'Good Run', so no more craziness until another 3 years' time.

On Cash had a long list of names as we're into a new quarter, but he did have some good news in the form of patches for Daniel Ngiam (25 years), Jaymond Toh and Ah Meng (10 years), and Lim Kin Hai and Mathew Lee (5 years). Congratulations.

Mathew Lee was then congratulated for winning the bid for the HangYang HHH to host the next Pan Asia Hash. With the help of Opera and Pang Wai, it will sure turn out to be a great event.

Blow Job Kang and Soh Bee were seen to cancel their one case of beer fine for lack of Bomoh duties – thanks, the club appreciates it.

The Guests and Visitors were up next with one gweiloh being addressed as CCB, one as Tight... and a contingent of Koreans: Jang, and Chong (I think). They all got a good song and a beer and seemed happy to have come, especially the Koreans who went with the walkers.

The Bomoh was none other than Playboy Choo who is not one to be messed with. However, as he'd only been given 10 minutes notice by Ah Mun (next week's Hare), he started off with a terrible faux pas: he said "Lad**s and Gentlemen", which quickly brought a beer to lips from the Butler. Then he got into his stride and got Mathew Opera and the rest of the Koreans for showing off by getting the winning bid for Pan Asia Hash; Billy NoHair for only wearing a belt(?); Ah Kah for calling On On, but was really lost himself – excellent charge. He then got Mountain Goat, Ah Meng and Ah Kah again for calling the wrong way. Shortcutters were also picked on, and finally he tried to locate the member who left his chair at the run site last week. No-one stepped forward so PB Choo has it in case you want it back. He quite took a liking to it, so you probably need to get another. Then off to the restaurant we went.

Restaurant Jeluk (or something like that) was booked; better known as the Fat Lady restaurant (but she no longer works there); or known as Kajang Prison Restaurant (by some of the gweilohs). The food was excellent and well-ordered with 6 or 7 steaming dishes. The Hare very generously also made it a free on on and so got the Terima Kasih song from a grateful pack. Great food, great company: what more could you want on a Monday night.
