Place: Cheras Hatamas

Since 1700hrs all the runners started to gather for the weekly Mother Hash run. Anticipating a long run I saw some hashers decided to apply ointments to their legs. Our On Sec as usual was seen advising cars owners to park their cars not to block the important van "Golden Nectar Van" Ramly.

Sharp 1800hrs On Sec called for the run to start and proceeded towards the road towards Tmn Saga.,after passing some houses on the right side the paper led towards the foothill of Cheras Hatamas to the high tension poles. Upon reaching the high tension there was the check # 1. We can see some Hashers already moving their own towards the right side proceeding to the higher pylon. Paper actually started along the pylon on the left side and climbing higher than swerved towards the right into the woods. After some zig zaging, we started to climb and climb and climb and till we reach the almost Level 6 the 2nd check was called. It took some time to solve that check but from far we could hear someone shouted on on at the level 6 area.

The run took us towards the waterfall area. The cunning Hare and his co hares decided to lengthen the run by doing a long circular check, all the way down hill and started back up to the Saga hill top again.

Check was found going down towards Tmn Saga about 150 meters away. The trail went along Tmn Saga passing the best low cost apartments with a fantastic view of the Klang Valley to an open area just excavated where the last check was located. Check was found further down on the road of the housing area. We thought it was home but alas we have another pylons for the up and down hill run home. The trails was steep and slippery with the loose gravels making descending treacherous.

We were home and was told that the first runner in clocked 1hour forty two minutes. Escaping the fine of 3 slabs of beers.

The circle was conducted by On Sec by calling the Hare and his co hares and was on down. The guests were called and given our traditional way as usual. Tony Maido strumming his guitar and entertaining the crowd. Beers was flowing with some Stouts was also consumed equally.

The On On was shown by the Hare to go to the nearby restaurant and was announced FOC. Big Hand to the Hare for the Extra beers and also good food.

Looks Like Me, Sound like me but I am called Alister
